The Difference of Sadako and Kayako in Japan with Kuntilanak and Sundel Bolong in Indonesia: An Anthropological Linguistic Study

Teguh Santoso Universitas Ngudi Waluyo Email Correspondence :teguh.santoso@unw.ac.id

Abstract. This study examines the two naming of ghosts in Indonesia and Japan and the emergence of such ghosts in ethnolinguistic perspectives and exposes the origin of naming ghosts in the mystical phenomenon that developed in Indonesian and Japanese societies. This naming will focus on two names of ghost types, both from Indonesia and Japan. The research method used in this research is the qualitative research method (Mahsun, 2014). The process of data collection is done by the technique of record and by recording the lexicon (a form of language) of the names of ghosts and where the ghost appears. The second technique is literature study by reading and reviewing references to the name and place of the appearance of the ghost. Data were analyzed by using meaning approach based on cultural concept (Riley, 2008). The sociocultural concept refers to the interaction between social and cultural factors in shaping identity, behavior, and the development of individuals and society as a whole. This concept has its roots in the understanding that the social and cultural environment has a significant impact on how humans think, behave, and develop. The results of the analysis show that these ghostly naming convictions still hold strong traditions and mystical beliefs of the past. The name and place of ghosts are adjusted to the way the ghost died. Several names of these ghosts are associated with many real life stories. Religious values integrate with the belief so inter-cultural acculturation takes place.

Introduction

Indonesia and Japan are archipelagic countries, famous for a long time for a variety of tribes cultures, and beliefs. Thus, this makes Indonesia and Japan have a special attraction for the wider community in the world. Not only is the diversity of cultural tribes famous, but in every corner of the region in Indonesia there are also many broad beliefs with various kinds of mystical stories.

In Indonesia itself there are still many people who believe in mystical, the appearance of ghosts which is often a frightening specter in society who often occupy empty houses or old buildings that have not been used for a long time. There are even those who think that the sightings of various kinds of ghosts are true and real. Which is often used as a story in Indonesian television films, namely: kuntilanak and sundel bolong.

According to an informant source from Mr. S. Domo, a humanist from Galsari hamlet, Central Java, who once told the author, it is said that the sundel bolong and kuntilanak ghosts appear because of the actions of a hired shaman filled with jinn by the shaman for a specific purpose, such as: for pesugihan, revenge and others.

Kuntilanak and sundel bolong become ghosts that are often considered similar or even the same by humans. However, there is actually a difference between kuntilanak and sundel bolong that is very striking, one of them is the appearance of their form. Kuntilanak and sundel bolong are indeed often described as female ghosts with long white dresses that are dirty from the ground. In addition, both of them are also said to have long hair that is very tangled.

It is said that sundel bolong had a big hole in her back. According to the news circulating, this hole looks full of blood and maggots. Unlike the other female ghosts, kuntilanak does not have a hole in its back. Kuntilanak is synonymous with long hair and a long white shirt (https://www.idntimes.com).

As with the Japanese state, Japan itself still has mystical stories, and until now it still recognizes the truth and even many who believe that certain places are home to the ghost. From some of the names of the ghosts it believes, it has a story of why the ghost exists and haunts the Japanese who recognize its existence.

One example of a ghost in Japan that became a famous Japanese ghost icon is Sadako and Kayako. The Hollywood movie even re-released the story with the name of Samara figure. It is said that this Japanese ghost story is a true story. Of course, Sadako and Kayako have their own way of terrorizing their victims. Sadako terrorized her victims by spreading a cursed video recording. Before killing the victim, the person watching the video recording will receive a phone call that only sounds like a high-frequency hum. Seven days after receiving the mysterious phone call, Sadako will appears to kill her victim by emerging from a television and walking towards the victim.

Meanwhile, Kayako is a ghost who doesn't like cleanliness because she likes to live in an empty and dusty house. She will terrorize the people who enter the house and if she stays in the house it is certain that the person will die. Before Kayako appears, there will be the appearance of her son Toshio first who makes cat noises to scare potential victims. After the appearance of Toshio, Kayako will easily walk to kill her victim (https://bacaterus.com/perbedaan-sadako-dan-kayako/).

Research Methodology

According to Kuncaraningrat (2009:150) mentions that cultural forms consist of ideas, actions, and artifacts. Artifacts or objects made by humans. In the Big Indonesian Dictionary, artifacts are objects (things) produced by human intelligence, such as tools, and weapons (KBBI, 1995:57). It is said that the ghost appeared because of the actions of a shaman who raised it by using his pet genie.

The data used in this research is in the form of linguistic data from lexicons (language forms) in the naming of ghosts, mystical stories, and cultural elements that develop in Indonesian and Japanese society. This naming only focuses on four types of ghost names, both from Indonesia and Japan, namely: Kuntilanak, Sundel bolong, Sadako and Kayako.

This research uses a qualitative research method (Mahsun, 2014). The data collection process is done by recording techniques and by recording the lexicon (language form) of the names of two Japanese and Indonesian ghosts, where the ghost appeared. The second technique is literature study by reading and studying references about the name and place of appearance of the ghost. The data was analyzed with an interpretation approach based on sociocultural concepts (Riley, 2008). The sociocultural concept refers to the interaction between social and cultural factors in shaping the identity, behavior, and development of individuals and society as a whole. This concept is rooted in the understanding that the social and cultural environment has a significant impact on how humans think, behave, and develop.

Some important points in the sociocultural concept include:

- Social Interaction: Humans live in a complex society and interact with other individuals.
  These interactions form social norms, values, and expectations that influence the way we behave and communicate.
- 2. Identity Formation: Individual identity is not only formed by internal factors such as personality but also influenced by the surrounding social and cultural environment. Religion, ethnicity, gender, and cultural values contribute to how someone sees himself.
- Learning and Development: This concept also emphasizes the importance of the environment in the learning and development process. Individuals learn through interaction with other people and the surrounding environment. This learning process includes understanding social norms, language, and ways of thinking that dominate in a certain society.
- 4. Language and Communication: Language is an important aspect of the sociocultural concept. Language is not only a communication tool, but also reflects the way of looking at the world, cultural values, and knowledge inherent in a certain society.
- 5. Influence of Culture on Behavior: Norms, values, and cultural practices influence the way humans behave. For example, work ethics, how to interact in the family, or how to celebrate important events are examples of how culture affects our actions and attitudes.
- 6. Social Change: The concept of sociocultural also includes an understanding of how changes in social and cultural factors can affect society and individuals. These changes can occur through migration, new technology, economic development, or other historical events.

Resultsa and Discussion

The results of the analysis show that the belief in naming the ghosts of Sadako and Kayako in Japan, with the ghosts of Kuntilanak and Sundel Bolong still hold strong traditions and mystical beliefs of the past. The name and place of appearance of the ghosts are adjusted according to the way the ghost died. Many of the four ghost names are associated with real stories in life. Religious values merge with trust so that intercultural acculturation occurs.

Conclusion

Basically, Indonesian and Japanese still believe in the existence of mystical and magical things, such as ghosts. Ghosts in Indonesia mostly have creepy characteristics, appearing in places around cemeteries, big trees, hospitals, and so on. While the Japanese ghosts are creepy and some look funny. The appearance is in the toilet, road, forest, and so on.

Japanese ghosts Sadako and Kayako have similarities with Indonesian ghosts, namely kuntilanak and sundel bolong. In terms of clothes, they wear all-white clothes and have long hair. All these ghosts are women who died in agony. The ghosts of Kuntilanak and Sundel Bolong died because they were raped and killed, while the ghosts of Kayako and Sadako before they died became ghosts because they were tortured and killed.
